Since each country has its own academic framework, Selinus has decided not to adopt any of them, rather to be equipped with study programs accredited by international organization.

Selinus is a legitimate free higher education institution; given its private nature, all degrees issued by Uniselinus cannot guarantee access to government administration. As a matter of fact, our programs steer in the direction of managers and professionals' employment in business international field rather than to public employment.

According to our modus operandi and inflexible evaluation criteria, our graduates are ready for essential business roles and executive-level positions in multinational corporations, NGOs, private companies or to perform unregulated professions. In addition, we provide experienced entrepreneurs with certification of how long they have been operating in their field.

The academic candidates' assessment, as well as the strict criteria in verifying their real skills, attitudes and competences, confer evidence of high professional and disciplinary competence to Selinus University Business School degrees.

MBA BY APEL

What does a MBA program by APEL consist in? (Accreditation Prior Experiential Learning) 40 credits

In case the thesis is not sufficient to prove the candidate's skills, either additional written reports or interviews with a specialized supervisor may be required. It is candidate's right to bring in references from institutions, companies or individuals.

To access the Master of Business Administration (MBA) program you must have a Bachelor degree or equivalent. If the degree requirement is not met, an alternative is to enrol in a Dual Degree program (Bachelor + MBA). In order to be admitted to the program, the candidate needs to have obtained at least 25 credits from his/her CV through the A.P.E.L. assessment. The final thesis will be evaluated 15 credits, for a total of 40 credits. Thesis have to be realised in a time range from 6 to 24 months at the most.

The MBA is the most prestigious degree in management and can also be carried out in a specific field, for example: MBA in Management, Finance, Executive Leadership etc.

Accreditation - Education Quality - Reputation

The accreditation process is non-governmental and voluntary. A distance education University normally appeals to a private, regional or professional association for accreditation; when any University applies, the accrediting institution performs an overall assessment and grants the accreditation only when deemed appropriate. Note that each accrediting organization has its own accreditation criteria. No worldwide accreditation standards are currently available for any distance learning higher education institutions such as Selinus University.

A distance learning degree is useful for many purposes but not for all. It gives access to many professions and jobs while others require government-accredited diplomas. For this reason, before enrolling, we suggest our potential students to verify the correct degree use in their country. Professional reputation depends on people's skills as well as acquired know-how; that is only virtually represented by the obtained degree. We have to bear in mind that any company relies on problem-solving skills and competences owned by aspiring employees rather than on their degree.

For most companies, the completion of a distance university program is as valid as attending courses on a formal university campus. In fact, completing a distance degree course demonstrates an unquestionable level of will, responsibility, motivation and personal organization. These skills are highly valued in the workplace and explain why HR managers do not value employees earning degrees only.
